Clash of the Empires is a standalone game of bluffing and deception, where you are the Captain of an advanced space vessel which has been stranded in a distant part of space. This is the story of the six crew members aboard the ship as they try to survive in the hostile environment of the space frontier. Can you outwit and outmanoeuvre the twelve other captains in the game and win the highest ranking, or will you fall victim to one of their many ruthless traps? Game PlayThe Captain is Dead: As Captain of the space vessel you will need to think tactically and keep a keen eye on your crew. Will you choose to take the crew with you into battle, or will you leave them behind, and use their funds to keep you out of trouble? The key to your success lies in your ability to make the right choices. Game Mechanics: The game features twenty-one unique game cards with unique abilities that can be applied to each of the players. You will need to work well together with your crew as they put their unique abilities into play to help you survive and make a final choice about what your priorities should be! Score: The score is kept as a collective score for all the crew. If there is a chance of the crew all running off into space together, will you pull them back in and end up with a negative score, or will you spend the funds and end up with the highest score? The final crew score will determine your standings at the end of the game. Game Play Experience: The Captain is Dead was designed from the ground up to offer a simple and intuitive experience for players. It is designed to be played in one session lasting approximately two hours with a maximum of five players. The game is easy to learn and hard to master, and each turn will be a very exciting and frantic race to the finish. The game features a beautiful, old-style map, and every deck is made up of tile cards that can be used to block the other players. The aim is to get the highest scores, but you will need to work together with your crew. Multiple Hour Play: Each scenario can be run in under an hour and can even be played in an afternoon! Campaign: You have a choice to play the game in its entirety, or to go through the campaign. You will be given three scenarios with different endings, with each scenario containing a different outcome as well. The endings d41b202975

NO SYMPATHY EVER!! I spent most of my life being very very very fat. I had horrible acne as a teenager (pre-hormonal) and became anorexic, having a poor eating disorder as a young adult. At my biggest I weighed about 400 pounds so I felt pretty comfortable saying that I was considered grossly obese. I had at least one experience as a teenager with the anorexic type of thin girl where I'd call her "skinny" (in a nasty snobby way) because I thought fat people were gross. I also hated my fat body, it was (and still is) extremely self-conscious (I'm partially Asian and I'm embarrassingly tiny for asian). I wanted to be fat. I just didn't know it until I was like "hey I am fat now I guess." It took me years of really bad eating to figure out that maybe, just maybe, I was indeed pretty fat. Now, not all fat people are the same. Not all fat people are unhealthy and I am not saying to all fat people "oh boo you fat!" But I want you to know that some fat people are indeed unhealthy. Some fat people are sick or unhealthy just like some skinny people are sick or unhealthy. And some skinnies are sick or unhealthy. I don't understand it all but I did make some sort of effort to become healthy this year, and while I didn't lose a ton of weight I do feel healthier now. It doesn't just start and end with "healthy = thin" in some cases, honestly. Story time: My very fat childhood years (Navy hospital kid) Thinking about my childhood made me remember how much I hated myself when I was fat. I was so embarrassed and I would go through situations where I would lie down to do my homework, rest my feet, etc. I remember one day (8th grade?) when I was rushing to finish something in time (homework) because I had made a date with a boy and I remember the lies I said that day to my mom. I kept insisting that I was fine, telling her to relax, just to be calm, to give me a little more time. Then I made a fake call to my brother and told him to let the other "fat

Dynamics of spin-spin relaxation and spin-lattice relaxation of protons in the rotating frame of polyatomic molecules under steady-state magnetic field in the framework of the vibronic coupling. It is shown that in the rotating frame of polyatomic molecules (including a rotational multiple quantum coherences) transitions between the states in a pair of nearly degenerate eigenstates which correspond to the different quantum numbers of the quantized electronic and angular momenta (states with the opposite parity) lead to appearance of spin-spin relaxation in some polyatomic molecules under steady-state magnetic field. It is shown that transitions between states of the same parity lead to Zeeman splitting of the resonance signals.The invention relates to a gas turbine, the blade arrangement of which is flanked on both sides by guide vanes. Known gas turbines include a plurality of turbine blades which are disposed in rows between guide vanes. The turbine blades are fastened on the guide vanes by means of fastening bolts which extend from the outer side of the guide vane to the respective blade. The turbine blade slots provided on the v
